LIAN LIAR WILSON on his review of the Prest-rate Fairfi Bill:

"The new bill began under the shadow of that depression. Only of recent months has there been a feeling of financial security in the country at large, but the close of the fiscal year shows an improvement of more than $90,000,000 in our customs receipts, and the revenues for July and August promise a still larger increase for the present year."
"The revenues for July and August" have given "still larger" deficiency "for the present year," the total for the two months being about $13,000,000, or at the rate of $78,000,000 a year, which would be an increase of about $25,000,000 above the deficit for the fiscal year sanding June 20th, 1806.
